Virtual reality is no longer something out of science fiction.

Take your gaming skills to the next level with these online 3D games.

Three-dimensional games offer a more realistic experience that makes gaming much more enjoyable albeit more challenging too.

In most of these, players are sent to a battlefield in which killing or being killed is the rule.

It is as important to find and take down your enemies quickly as it is to hide and protect your own back to avoid having your enemies sneaking behind you and taking you off the game.

In other simulators like Traffic Jam 3D or Intercity Bus Driver, the 3D feature offers a much more realistic experience of driving in a city or highway, which in turn means that you need to pay attention to your surroundings to avoid crashing into other cars when changing direction or lanes.

One single distraction and they will be ready to sneak in and overtake you.

This is a defining characteristic of 3D games as there are also 2D games that use three-dimensional geometry and even allow switch cameras to check different perspectives.
