Its goal is to increase the number of sports betting operators in the Empire St ate while lowering the tax rate.

The NY sports betting tax rate is currently set at 51%.

This legislation would clarify and update the laws governing the current operat ions and would direct the Gaming Commission to issue additional mobile sports wa gering licenses so that we can continue to grow and improve the market. If there are 15 or more operators, the rate would be 25%. Another stipulation of the bill would allow operators to exclude promotional bet s from the GGR reported for taxes.

Who wouldn't want more options when picking a sportsbook to join? But I'll speak for myself, I'm all ears.

If something doesn't shake, New York sports bettors will be the ones that s uffer.
