The Over/Under is a set of odds in which you bet on whether the combined score will add up to more or less than the projected total number set by oddsmakers. Over/Under betting, or totals betting, is one of the most popular options for sports bettors along with the point spread and moneyline.

Before making an Over/Under bet, you'll need to decide if the collective score will be more or less than the oddsmakers' total and if you should make the bet now or later - because the Over/Under might change.

Lakers is set at 222. However, the Over has a vig of -120 while the Under is set at +100 or EVEN money.

It could also reflect the amount of money already wagered on the Over, as sportsbooks attempt to entice bets on the Under at the lower vig to balance out the money on either side.

What does total mean in betting? Total is another term for Over/Under odds, betting on the total combined score.

The caveat is that the central government has left it to the states to decide whether to legalise or outlaw online gambling within their borders.

What individual states say?

In a few other states like Tamil Nadu, there's no legislation either banning or legalising online betting.

So, what is a game of skill?

The same skills and learning come into play while wagering on any other sport - be it field hockey betting or kabaddi betting, for that matter.
